

“I have absolutely benefited a lot since joining in Music Broth. Music Broth has not only helped with recycling musical instruments but also deepened people’s passion in music appreciation. I have personally been motivated by what this charity have done, how volunteers have devoted themselves, how positive the feedbacks have been, etc. I have been promoting Music Broth to people I know in Glasgow, and I was always thrilled to see my friends helping out at certain events organised by Music Broth. It was literally the first official charity I worked for, and I’ve realised that my experience at Music Broth encouraged me to volunteer in various other charitable organisations. These include CISS (Confucius

Institute for Scotlands Schools), SCSSA (Strathclyde Chinese Students and Scholars Society), Strathclyde Piano Society, Scottish Economic Committee, etc. I was also awarded “Volunteer of the Year” by Strathclyde Student Union in 2020.
